Is it possible to automatically generate recurring payments for ongoing listings?

PaymentsPlus uses recurring payments (subscriptions) when paid by PayPal the listing is auto published. Offline payments however need to be manually processed by Admin. Unlike other subscription systems out there, PaymentsPlus places the subscription on each listing both free and paid. Users can list as many listings as they like, the subscription is placed on each Listing not the user who owns the listing/s. The user however must be registered to place a listing, this then ties the listing/s to that user.

As soon as a customer pays , does the listing automatically get published or it has to be approved by admin?

After the payment is successful from PayPal, PayPal auto publishes the listing, Admin should also receive an email from PayPal with the successful payment details. Only Offline payments need to be Admin approved.
